A Committee from the Currency Convention of Baltimore have recently made an examination of the condition of the Franklin Bank of that city, which fulled about nine months since. They report that the condition is good, and that "the utmost confidence may be placed in the institution by depositors, as independent of other considerations they have an unwavering reliance on the honesty and in-tegrity of the officers who have the Bank is charge."-This assertion, however, does not tally very well with the atatement of the assets and liabilities, where there is put down seventeen kundred dollars in specie against twents six thensand dollars of circulation. This Bank has been doing no business for nearly a year, and the Committee selected it us an agent, which is to receive deposites or Railroad orders and pay them out, and the Conven tion recommend that all who use that currency open so
